

Washington State Board of Health June 2014

The Washington State Board of Health is established in the State Constitution and serves our state by working to understand and prevent disease across the entire population. The Board provides leadership through rulemaking and policy development, and by offering a public forum that enables citizens to help shape state health policy.

Services

- Work closely with the Department of Health and other partners to examine best practices, review scientific literature, and engage the regulated community and public to develop a wide variety of public health rules, including:
 - Disease reporting
 - Vital Statistics
 - Drinking water systems
 - Septic tanks/ onsite sewage disposal
 - HIV testing and partner notification
 - Immunizations
 - Food service
 - School environmental health
 - Hotels and Motels
 - Newborn screening
- Work in partnership with state and local agencies, and others to develop statewide policy recommendations and explore ways to improve the public's health. For example, in partnership with Department of Health and the Office of Superintendent of Public Instruction, the Board developed Research Review: School-based Health Interventions and Academic Achievement. This report identifies health interventions and resources that can positively affect student health and academic achievement.
- Engage the public through public meetings, and outreach to local boards of health and advisory groups. Examples of this work include public forums and briefings on issues such as newborn screening, opioid abuse, and the health status of Washington residents.
- Staff and support the Governor's Interagency Council on Health Disparities. The Council is charged with creating an action plan for eliminating health disparities by race, ethnicity and gender. The Council's 2012 Action Plan focused on priorities and recommendations to reduce behavioral health disparities, promote environmental justice, reduce health disparities from environmental exposures and hazards, and to reduce poverty and the impacts of poverty on health disparities.
